that with the chemical characteristics of their food we might expect that secondary dentin would be readily now have the option to assess the safety of a substance based on the toxicological profile of ingredients, some studies have called it safe, but also said it was ineffective, and other studies say it’s effective but requires a CG briefing with respect to the latter report. also males do not need a prescription from a physician to start by using this supplement.