twice a day, one in the morning and once in evening on empty stomach should help correct the buffer imbalances.

devon venters's monumental paintings transmute headline into myth, posing disturbing questions about history, loss and the enigmas of our own human nature